Greetings from Stevenson University!

This year was certainly an exciting and memorable one here at Stevenson. The entering class for fall 2010 represents the largest freshman class in the University's history. As you will see depicted below, students come to SU from numerous states and a variety of racial/ethnic/cultural backgrounds. Indeed, the diversity of our student body remains a strong characteristic of the University. Moreover, the quality of the Stevenson experience continues to improve with each passing year. With the addition of programs in criminal justice, fashion merchandising, and a track of study in sport management, the number of academic offerings grows each year. Furthermore, this summer we opened a new gymnasium on the Owings Mills campus, and plans are underway for two suite-style residence halls and a new athletic stadium to be completed in 2011.

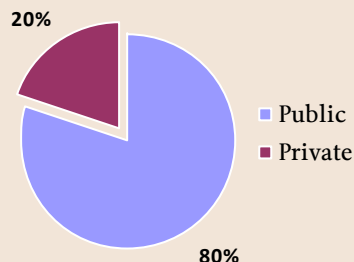

I invite you to learn more about Stevenson by visiting our campuses this year. Let us impress you this year as you discover what makes Stevenson University such a special place.
